12th October 2009

Creative Edge provides Oxford University Library Service with a range of training courses that cover a variety of topics, all of an outstanding standard. Many of these courses have been designed specifically for OULS and Milly Sinclair has worked tirelessly with the organisation to develop and adapt these courses as required.

What is clear from the feedback we have received is that delegates feel engaged and incredibly positive after a training session and importantly, empowered to put their learning into practice. Delegates find the highly interactive aspects of the courses particularly useful and fun!

Best wishes
